Melvin E. Wyant's
RECOMMENDATIONS for Fall Planting
1934

● ROSLYN—A brilliant golden-yellow rose that heads the list of descendents of the famous Souv. de Claudius Pernet. An excellent cut flower of lasting color and perfect in bud and open bloom.

ROSLYN

• Plant This Fall •

Roses delight in fall planting. When they are set out the last of October or in November they grow so much better and bloom more profusely than if you wait until Spring for planting.

The bushes you plant this fall establish themselves in their new location before winter and are ready next spring to start growth long before you are able to plant.

Wyant Roses came thru the most trying winter in our memory.

Thousands of Wyant Roses were planted last fall yet less than 50 failed to survive the unprecedented cold of last winter. Surely a record of which we can be proud.

WYANT ROSES ARE VERY DIFFERENT

“You pay for what you get” was never truer than in these days of the keenest competition.

Lets compare what you get in Wyant Roses with what you get in cheaper roses:

WYANT ROSES:

Two-year field grown budded bushes grown in the trying climate of Northern Ohio.

Cheap Roses:

Southern or Western grown plants that cannot adjust themselves to our extreme weather conditions; or bushes that are worn out from having been forced in green houses.

In the Vanguard—THE SENTINEL—Wyant's Exclusive Introduction

Hardy as a shrub, with all the fine hybrid tea characteristics

Not always do the roses that satisfy all our demands for hardiness, continuous bloom and fragrance have in addition a beauty of form and texture that places them in the front ranks. Yet such a rose is Sentinel.

The blossom is a velvety crimson similar to Red Radiance in color. The ovoid buds open into large double blossoms composed of 12 broad petals. This newest recruit to the ranks of the invincibles was presented to the American Rose Society by its originator, Allister Clark of Australia. We predict a glorious future for Sentinel and know you will find a place for it in your garden. It is especially adapted for planting in the background or with shrubs. $1.50 each.

WYANT ROSES:

Multiflora japonica root stock grown at great expense on our farm to insure an abundance of fibrous roots.

Cheap Roses:

Imported root stock lacking in fibrous roots.

WYANT ROSES:

Expert supervision throughout the growing season by men trained to produce superior stock. Constant dusting to prevent disease and insect injury.

Cheap Roses:

Bushes grown in great quantity by unskilled labor—Branches often defoliated by insects and diseases before the growing season is over.

They Refused to Wait Another Year for COMET

Truly a beautiful climber producing off and on throughout the season a profusion of blossoms of a delicate pink flushed with gold and salmon at the base of the petals.

This rare beauty was to have made her debut in the fall of 1935 but when our friends saw what a prize we had, they persuaded us to let them have plants this fall. There just aren't enough for everyone who wants them so we shall have to limit the distribution. Only one to a customer and others will be filled in the order in which they are received.

Our new friends will be able to procure Comet in the fall of 1935. This fall it is available only to our customers of previous years. $1.50 each.

You Take No Risk

You are running almost no chance in fall planting with Wyant's Roses for each one grows.

Your soil is generally in better condition for Fall planting than it is in the Spring at proper planting time.

There is no loss of plant energy from storage as the plants are dug direct from our fields and shipped to you.

Complete planting instructions for success with Wyant's Roses are included with every order.

Fall planting assures the varieties you want which are often sold out in the following Spring and this delays your planting a full year.
